

The bugeisha when missing the target... looks for the answer within.

Muso Jikiden
Eishin Ryu

Suhara Koun Sensei of Enkakuji, Kamakura

Missing our Mark.

*Is it the wind's fault?
Is it the arrow's fault?
Is it the bow's fault?
Is it the day's fault?
Who can we blame?*

And yet if we do not assume responsibility - how can we take charge of the situation. If it is someone else's fault then we are saying we are not in control, we are giving up our power. Dare we let go of blame?

To assume responsibility is to say "I can fix it". To do so is to take a huge weight off your shoulders and to take charge of your life.

There is no one or thing to blame, only a correction, refinement to make.

The answers lie within.